

Mr. Tuffy

The City of Tucson's Department of Neighborhood Resources graffiti mascot (a boxing bulldog) was created by student council members of the Corbett Elementary School in the winter of 2006. They also coined the graffiti prevention logo "Knock Out Graffiti in Tucson." City of Tucson Parks and Recreation KIDCO program youth, in the fall of 2007, participated in a competition to name the mascot. The name that was judged and selected by the student council members of Corbett Elementary School is "Mr. Tuffy." Alexis Walton, a second grader who attends the Tolson KIDCO site in the Southwest District submitted the winning name.
